"Low Intensity Warfare"
Special Marathon Programs

Report to the Listener

Vincent C. Thomas

Spring is upon us. Time for new life and new ideas. During the month of May you will be hearing a lot about the new activism, a concept that is quickly catching on in the progressive and alternative community. WBAI plans to be in the forefront of that movement with a lot of exciting programming that will discuss issues that are galvanizing people to collective action.

One of the positive results of this movement is a greater awareness of the need to support institutions that dedicate themselves to the issue of social change. The past eight years have taught us a serious lesson about the right's ability to organize and generously support the institutions that sponsor a return to conservative ideas whose time has long since passed.

WBAI will be starting its Marathon on May 6. This Marathon is very important, since it comes at a time when the excitement of current events is reaching a fever pitch. It is also our last opportunity to hear from you before the long hot summer; a summer that promises to percolate with excitement as we head toward the elections in the fall.

We at WBAI want to spend our time with the issues this summer, not worrying whether or not we can hold out financially until September. It is important that if not any other time, this time you respond to our appeal that you received in the mail recently. Your generous contribution will give us that head start going into the Marathon that will boost our morale greatly.

This is our last month of grace before we join the ranks of institutions in Manhattan gouged by the lack of protection regarding rent increases for commercial real estate. Our rent increases over 300% beginning June 1st. In order for us to absorb this shocking increase, without dismembering our staff and ability to provide you with the provocative programming you've come to enjoy, it becomes doubly important that our listeners respond with their support for WBAI.

This has been meeting month for public radio organizations. Our management staff has just returned from the National Federal of Community Broadcasters convention in Rockville, Maryland, recently, and our own Pacifica Board meetings will be taking place the weekend of May 6th. Much of the discussion will center around our plans for coverage of the national conventions this summer.

As I write this, in April, it is 40° outside and dropping. When you read this, June will be 30 days away, and we will be involved in our summer election coverage and internal overhaul.. More then.

We're Sorry We're Late

Every issue of the FOLIO since last August's has got into the mail on time so that, with reasonable treatment by the post office, everybody's copy should be sitting on top of her or his radio by the first of the month. This month's will not be on time. What with people beset by viruses; crashed computers; and the New York primary--

We apologize.

Housing Activism Takes a Leap Forward

by Michael McBride

Saturday, March 19, was a memorable day for New Yorkers who have been concerned about the issues of homelessness and housing justice in our city and region.

For a full day, homeless people, housing activists, and other concerned citizens gathered for a Popular Assembly and Teach-in co-sponsored by the Learning Alliance and WBAI's Listeners' Action on Homelessness and Housing (alternate Thursdays, 1:30 p.m.).

Nearly 400 people turned out for the event, which was held at the Cathedral of Saint John the Divine and was moderated by "Lunchpail" host Paul Gorman (Saturdays, 10:30 a.m.)

The Popular Assembly was convened for the purpose of giving the community of housing activists an opportunity to get together and discuss ways to win concrete victories in 1988. During the morning session, a diverse panel of speakers addressed the assembly on specific issues that concern the groups they represent. Those speakers will be heard on WBAI during this month's Marathon, at 6:45 each weekday morning (see box on page 5).

After a communal lunch, prepared by Listeners' Action volunteers, the assembly broke up into a series of small working groups to discuss the issues and strategies that had been introduced by

Nora Astorga

Arise, then, ... women of this day!
Arise, all women who have hearts ...
Our sons shall not be taken from us to unlearn
All that we have been able to teach them of charity, mercy and patience.
We, women of one country,
Will be too tender of those of another country
To allow our sons to be trained to injure theirs.
From the bosom of the devastated earth a voice goes up with Our own. It says: "Disarm, disarm!
"The sword of murder is not the balance of justice."

—Julia Ward Howe, 1870

Nora Astorga Peace Warrior

Nora Astorga-Gadea was born into Nicaragua's privileged ruling class on December 9, 1948. During her 39 years of life she blazed a trail of extraordinary personal achievement as a woman, as an attorney, as a guerrilla commander, and as an international diplomat. Nora Astorga's final battle was against breast cancer. In January of this year, with friends and her children gathered around her, she said:

"I could not change it all.

"But this is a beginning.

"And now ... it's your turn."

Housing

the morning speakers. The topics discussed in the workshops included: squatters' rights, housing for disabled people, tenant protection, models for housing production and ownership, legislative action, direct service to homeless people, organization in shelters and welfare hotels, and proposals for direct action, such as demonstrations and civil disobedience.

At the end of the day, participants came together once again to hear reports from the various workshops. While no single consensus arose from all of the discussions, it was clear that several ideas had received widespread support—

- Legislation to end the shameful practice of warehousing apartments is an achievable goal for 1988. For two years, a bill that would outlaw warehousing has been stalled in committee, even though it is supported by a majority of the City Council. Bringing the bill to a full Council vote will involve pressure on two Queens Councilmembers: Majority Leader Peter Vallone and Housing Committee Chair Archie Spigner.
- Squatting is a viable option for many in the city's shelter and welfare hotel system. The shelters are full of skilled workers who can reclaim abandoned buildings and rehabilitate them into homes for themselves and their families. While not all homeless people can withstand the rigorous conditions and the threats of eviction and official harassment, the strong and committed can look at the growing squatters' movement as a way out of the trap that the city's homeless programs have become.
- 1988 must see an escalation in the tactics employed to fight the housing crisis. Listeners' Action, which has traditionally organized a unified two-day effort in mid-December, is now looking forward to a wide-ranging series of actions lasting a full week. Others called for a "Day of Outrage," a carefully targeted civil disobedience action planned for later this year.
- In this Presidential election year, candidates must be held to account for their records and their views on the housing crisis. Vice-President Bush must answer for the record of the Reagan Administration. The Democratic candidates must be specific about their proposals for restored funding of Federal housing programs.

For everyone who took part in the Popular Assembly, it was a day of learning, and a day in which we all felt, palpably, a renewal of commitment. In every corner of the Cathedral Synod House, issues were being debated and new friends were being made. Through the efforts of the Listeners' Action Outreach program, homeless New Yorkers were able to express themselves directly to the activists who are toiling on their behalf.

The next major effort in the fight for a fair housing policy will be aimed at the City Council's deliberations on new year's budget. The budget hearings will take place in June, and Listeners' Action will be there, with demonstrations and an all-night vigil at City Hall.

Now is the time for you to become radio-active on the issue of housing justice. To find out what needs to be done, call the Listeners' Action Hotline—(212) 316-7544.

Housing Activists Speak Out

WBAI will rebroadcast highlights from the March 19 Popular Assembly on Homelessness and Housing. The panelists represent a wide range of views on dealing with the housing crisis—taken together, they provide a sampler of the many ways in which listeners can get involved.

Following is the schedule for the broadcasts, which will air weekday mornings at 6:45:

- Monday May 2 - Oda Friedheim, Tenant Unity Coalition, talks about tenant protection and the statewide legislative agenda.
- Tuesday May 3 - Jim Haughton, National Tenants' Organization, discusses the future of public housing in America.
- Wednesday May 4 - Irma Rodriguez, Citywide Task Force on Housing Court, discusses the recent report, "Five-Minute Justice," an analysis of how the Housing Court is used by landlords to harass and evict tenants.
- Thursday May 5 - Alfredo Gonzalez, homeless organizer, speaks about conditions inside the city shelters.
- Friday May 6 - Richard Vergil, Interfaith Assembly on Homelessness and Housing, on the role of religious communities in bringing about change in the city's housing policy.
- Monday May 9 - Beth Gorey, Coalition for the Homeless: the importance of holding legislators and elected officials accountable for their records on the housing issue.
- Tuesday May 10 - Paul Feuerstein, Barrier-Free Living, discusses the issue of housing for disabled people.
- Wednesday May 11 - Peter Smith, Partnership for the Homeless, on the Homeless Accelerated Re-Housing Program (HARP), a proposal for closing the city's welfare hotels within one year.
- Thursday May 12 - Cathy Morales, New York Squatters' Material Aid Campaign, discusses the challenges and opportunities afforded by squatting in abandoned buildings.
- Friday May 13 - Karen Dauksis, National Campaign To End Hunger and Homelessness, on a strategy for moving both of these issues to the top of the Congressional agenda.
- Monday May 16 - Ruth Young, Housing Justice Campaign, discusses the importance of citywide grass-roots organizing in creating a unified housing movement.

I.F. Stone, the man who always remembers inconvenient facts.

A Conversation with I.F. Stone at 80

Lifelong journalist / writer I.F. Stone has been reporting on and expounding about issues of peace and civil liberties since 1922. Now 80, Stone says he's "having a ball." His "The Trial of Socrates," a ten-year research into Athenian democracy, has recently been published; it asks how the execution of Socrates could have occurred under what is commonly portrayed as an ideal democracy. Stone postulates that Socrates was a threat to the Greek state and describes his book as "the latest scoop."

Stone has hardly abandoned his finger-pointing, incisive attention to current-day issues, during what he describes as "a wonderful old age of scholarship." During a March speech, co-sponsored by The Nation Institute and The New School, to a crowd that spilled over into the street, Stone focused on the situation in the Middle East, the Iran / contra affair, the state of the world in general, and his new book in specific.

Best known for his one-man investigative publication, "I.F. Stone's Weekly," published from 1953 until 1972, Stone has consistently applied a critical eye and a socialist analysis to the American political establishment. For 19 years Washington was taken to task in his "Weekly"—Stone continues as a columnist with "The Nation."

Produced for radio by Sally O'Brien.

Tribute to a Peacemaker: Brian Willson

Dancing joyously on two wooden legs, peace activist and decorated Vietnam veteran Brian Willson asserted for all to hear: "I am waging unconditional peace."

In Willson's case the word "unconditional" is no exaggeration. During a protest last September Willson lost both legs: a Navy munitions train roared over him as he attempted to block its path with his body.

That incident was Willson's second flirtation with death. The first was in the fall of 1986, when he fasted on the steps of the nation's capitol to draw attention to the US-sponsored war against Nicaragua. That fast ended within 37 days after Willson and three fellow "Fast for Lifers" received thousands of letters from across the country. Willson said a large number of those letters came from children begging the activists not to die. It was then he realized the fast had made an impact.

Despite the loss of his legs, Willson continues to tour and speak out against US policy. Most recently he traveled to Nicaragua, where he witnessed the signing of the limited peace accord between the Sandinistas and the US-funded counterrevolutionaries.

Willson began his quest for peace during the bloody Vietnam war, where he served as an intelligence security officer in the Air Force from 1966 to 1970. A decorated officer, Willson left Southeast Asia with an honorable discharge. While still under active duty, Willson began to speak out against the war. Upon returning home, Willson worked with veterans' groups and served on Massachusetts Senator John Kerry's Veteran's Advisory Committee for two years.

It was his own war experience that spurned Willson's activism. He speaks of the horrors and injustice inflicted by the US on people in their own land, and says he is willing to lay down his life, if necessary, to prevent more of the same in Central America.

WBAI offers excerpts of Willson's speech in New York City. The program is produced by WBAI journalist Sally O'Brien, joined by guests from CASA Nicaragua and SANE/FREEZE.

Noam Chomsky US Policy in Mideast

Internationally renowned, Noam Chomsky ranks among the most astute and articulate critics of US foreign policy.

In a special program, Chomsky examines the roots and underlying impulses that inform, guide, and direct US policies in the Middle East. Within the regional context he focuses on US relations with Iran and Israel, and explores the background of the Iran-contra scandal and documents that secret arms shipments were going to Iran via Israel since the early '80s.

Chomsky shows how and why the US has created and manipulated Israel as a "strategic asset," and why both countries have opposed and blocked a peace settlement with the Palestinians. His perspectives are singular, his arguments cogent, and his conclusions are startling and provocative.

Of Chomsky, professor of linguistics at MIT, "The New York Times" has written: "Judged in terms of the power, range, novelty, and influence of his thought, Noam Chomsky is arguably the most important intellectual alive."

Martha Schlamme Her Life in Song

Internationally renowned folksinger and recording artist Martha Schlamme considered herself a "citizen of the world" and embraced the music of all cultures. She was particularly admired for her renditions of Yiddish songs and her interpretations of Brecht / Weill.

The first artist to boycott South Africa, and a singer in the forefront of the struggle to free the Rosenbergs and Morton Sobel, Martha was a person of deep political conviction.

This broadcast, re-aired from its October appearance on WBAI, highlights tapes from her live concerts, recordings, and excerpts from interviews with many of the artists and others who numbered among Martha's friends, including Alvin Epstein, Pete Seeger, Judy Collins, William Bolcom, Joan Morris, and Michael Feingold.

Co-produced by Sue Renee Bernstein and Belle Linda Halpern.

Healthstyles Marathon Specials

While the gay community has led the way on activism on AIDS, who is speaking up for women and children with AIDS, many of whom are ethnic minorities and poor? Some argue that women and children with AIDS are at the end of the line in terms of access to treatment and care. Barbara Glickstein moderates this special with guests from WARN (Women and AIDS Resource Network) and other groups advocating for women and children with AIDS.

1:30 p.m. - 2:30 p.m. Friday May 13

This special marathon program features three health activist organizations: HealthPAC (Health Policy Advisory Center), PIHC-NYC (Public Interest Health Consortium of New York City), and the Center for Medical Consumers and Health Care Information.

This year, HealthPAC celebrates 25 years of independent health

Low Intensity Warfare Marathon Special

Covert action. Counter insurgency. Low intensity conflict.

Millions of people have been killed, crippled, tortured, made homeless and hungry. Economies have been savaged, governments have been cut down.

The names for these actions are thin disguises for a new and peculiar kind of "unofficial," "indirect," "hidden" undeclared warfare.

Hear former CIA director Stansfield Turner, retired US Air Force General Jack Kidd, former CIA operative Colonel Philip Roettinger, plus experts on militarism and covert war from Europe, Africa, and Latin America, when WBAI, as part of its May '88 Marathon, presents a 7-1/2 hour special on Low Intensity Warfare.

Produced by Samori Marksman.

1:00 CROSSROADS. A newsmagazine on minority issues and Jane Connell. Nominated for a Tony for her current performance in the Broadway hit "Me and My Girl," in which this singing comedienne plays the Duchess of Dene, Connell's early more-than-memorable role was Mrs. Peachum in the original Theatre de Lys "Threepenny Opera." She may well qualify as Broadway's Most Steadily Employed. Between the Brecht classic and the current British-base hit, she's been – among many, many other roles – Agnes Gooch in "Mame," both in the original production on Broadway and again in the 1983 revival (with Angela Lansbury in the title role both times) and as if that weren't enough of Gooch she did it in the movie version too, in 1973, with Lucille Ball as the title-role aunt.

This funny lady talks about her fully employed career on WBAI's long-running OUT THERE ON THEIR OWN.
